I can certainly see situations where you realize you want to rearrange your batteries and solar panels (in fact, I have a case of my own, but doubt I'd bother with it even if ...

The way removal of a large storage battery from a vehicle that then requires installation of another entire part in order to reassemble feels very unrealistic, and petty/pedantic.

Currently, I've got a bunch of solar panels outside of my base powering a storage battery, recharging station, kitchen buddy, interior lighting and a stereo system to keep mood and focus ...

Basically you need a power source, be it a home made generator, solar pannels, a water wheel, ect. Then you need a battery to store power in, a car batter, large storage ...

After installing standard Solar Panels on an electric vehicle, batteries are not charged up anymore, even if the vehicle spawned with Solar Panels that previously worked.

You can eventually wire together loose cells to make new panels, and apparently damaged panels can still be made into perfectly fine reinforced panels with 90% efficiency.

You activate the cable, select the solar panel, go down to battery, activate cable again, plug into the battery. If they are too far apart use the outdoors one.
