

Solar panel and battery quote

How do I choose the best solar battery?

The make and model of a battery should be included in the quote, so look for customer reviews of the brand to find the best solar battery for you. Of course, you'll also want one that suits your storage needs. Once information about the equipment is out of the way, a quote should include how the system is expected to work over time.

How do I get a solar quote?

Get accurate technical specifications and request a quote for each product. Get competitive quotes from trusted local and national solar companies. SolarCompare is an online platform helping homeowners purchase solar power, compare solar panels, and choose vetted installers.

What should a rooftop solar quote include?

The main components of a rooftop solar installation are the solar panels, inverters, and batteries. A solar quote should, at minimum, include the brand name and model number for each component and information about the warranty coverage offered for these components. Here's some more information on what to look for:

How much does a solar battery cost?

Batteries store excess electricity generated by your solar panels. This stored energy can power your home during cloudy days or at night. Battery costs range from $5,000 to $15,000, influenced by factors such as:
Capacity: Measured in kilowatt-hours (kWh); larger capacity systems store more energy.

Are solar batteries a good option for your home?

About half of all residential installers install both types, and the quote they give you will include the option they feel is best suited for your home. Solar batteries are an optional addition to a solar installation. According to our solar industry survey, 28% of all new solar installations include energy storage.

How do I compare solar quotes?
